

CrimsonLogic won a contract to develop a Single Electronic Windows for Suriname's Ministry of Trade, Industry and Tourism (MTIT)

10 May, 2019

From left: Bala Nair (Senior VP, CrimsonLogic), Reina Raveles (Director, Ministry of Trade, Industry and Tourism, Suriname) and Stephen Tsang (Minister, Trade Industry and Tourism, Suriname).

Group photo of CrimsonLogic Team and the Ministry of Trade, Industry and Tourism, Suriname.

CrimsonLogic won a contract to develop a Single Electronic Windows for Suriname's Ministry of Trade, Industry and Tourism (MTIT).

During the contract signing ceremony, Minister Tsang indicated in his speech that it will take effort for the government to implement the new changes to business communities and institutions involved in this project. However, he believes the benefits of the new system will outweigh any inconvenience caused, and will attract more foreign investors to the Republic in the near future.

The signing ceremony was held in Paramaribo (Suriname), and was attended by more than 100 guests from the Ministry of Finance and Trade, Ambassadors, and representatives from the private sector.